1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

I. Claims 1-7, drawn to apparatus, classified in class 324, subclass 763.

II. Claims 8-11, drawn to apparatus, classified in class 324, subclass 763.

III. Claims 12-22, drawn to apparatus, classified in class 324, subclass 763.

IV. Claims 23-32, drawn to method, classified in class 324, subclass 763.

V. Claims 33-38, drawn to apparatus, classified in class 324, subclass 763.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because:

Inventions I, II, II and V in a first set and IV in a second set are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product as claimed does not require trio of ring oscillators as required in claim 23.

Inventions I, II and V in a first set and III in a second set are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because no requirement of first and second counters is needed in at least claims 1, 8 and 33. The subcombination has separate utility that can be used without a compare circuit as disclosed in claims 1, 8 and 33.

Inventions I and II in a first set and V in a second set are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination can be practiced without a measurement circuit as required at least in claim 33. The subcombination has separate utility that does not require either of a clocked reliability oscillator recited in claim 1 or a static reliability oscillator recited in claim 8.

Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed because the combination does not require a static reliability oscillator to generate a DC bias degraded oscillating signal recited in claim 8. The subcombination has separate utility that does not require a clocked reliability oscillator to generate an AC degraded oscillating signal recited in claim 1.

3. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

4. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143).

5. A telephone call was made to the Office of the Attorney of Record on August 5,

2005 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made.

6. A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire one month(s) from the date of this letter. Failure to respond within the period for response will cause the application to become abandoned. 35 U.S.C. 133
